Gustave A. Larson Company Honored by Enertech Manufacturing

Mitchell, SD April 12, 2011 – Enertech Manufacturing held it's distributor meeting April 11-13 at the Highland Conference Center in downtown Mitchell. Enertech's GeoComfort and Hydron Module distributors were in attendance for this week of meetings and tours. Attendees were given the opportunity to tour Enertech's recently expanded factory. While there they were able to see first hand the quality built into every GeoComfort and Hydron Module geothermal system. The day concluded with a dinner and awards banquet.

Gustave A. Larson Company, a distributor of Hydron Module geothermal systems, received the Million Dollar Club award for sales in excess of $1 million. Larry Rasmussen accepted their award Tuesday evening at the banquet. Gustave A. Larson Company began business in 1936 in Madison, WI. In 1996 they began selling the Hydron Module brand of geothermal systems. In a typical year Gustave A. Larson dealers install 250 geothermal units.

Enertech Manufacturing produces GeoComfort and Hydron Module and TETCO brand geothermal heat pumps. These systems harness the earth's natural energy for heating and cooling rather than using fossil fuels. This makes them environmentally friendly and energy efficient. In fact, the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency recognizes geothermal systems as the most energy efficient heating and cooling systems available today. The federal government offers a significant tax credit to homeowners who install a qualifying residential geothermal system. Many states and utilities have incentives as well.
